

The Science Fair At Our Lady of Grace School

Every year the OLGS seventh and eighth grade students are required to enter the Science Fair. They are given a science fair packet which contains all the information, requirements and expectations for the project. The choice of topic is theirs. It must be approved by Mrs. Addison Beck, science teacher, during one of the many conferences they have during the 10 weeks that they are given to complete this long term project. These projects are then brought into school and each student shows their project to the entire middle school. The students vote on the best. These are then judge by three judges: Mrs. Patricia Dotterweich, shown in the picture, Dr. Andrew Dotterweich, and Dr. Marlene Burr. Each student shares their science project with all three judges, as Alex Zaruba is doing in the photograph.

Ruth Beck shares her science fair project with Judge Dr. Burr.

Laura Dobbyn goes over her work with Judge Dr. Dotterweich.

The children from other grades, including the preschool, came and saw and heard about the middle school science fair projects. They were impressed!
